Yellow warning
Rain

Between 12:00 Sun 23 Feb 2025 and
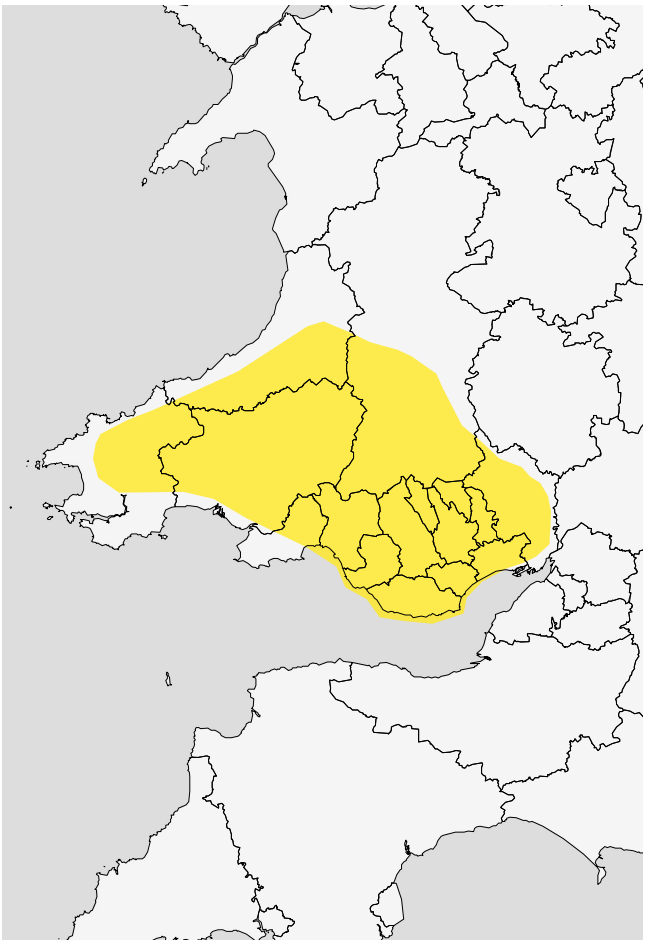
23:59 Sun 23 Feb 2025



Heavy rain may result in some flooding and transport disruption on Sunday.

What to expect

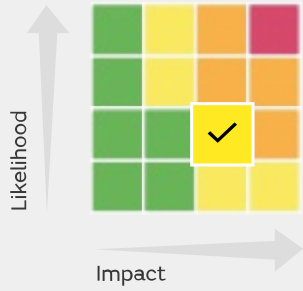
- Homes and businesses could be flooded, causing damage to some buildings
- Fast flowing or deep floodwater is possible, causing a danger to life
- Delays or cancellations to train and bus services are possible
- Spray and flooding could lead to difficult driving conditions and some road closures
- Some communities may be cut off by flooded roads
- Possible power cuts and loss of other services to some homes and businesses

Further details

A broad band of rain will push east during Sunday, bringing a spell of around 9-12 hours of heavy rain. The rain will set in around mid-morning and not clear until Sunday night. The rain will be heaviest over high ground, especially over south or southwest-facing hills. 60-90mm of rain is likely in these wettest, most exposed locations with 30-50 mm expected widely across the warning area.

What Should I Do?

Check if your property could be at risk of flooding.



Low likelihood of medium impacts

Further Details (continued)

If so, consider preparing a flood plan and an emergency flood kit.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

People cope better with power cuts when they have prepared for them in advance. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Reason for update

The warning area has been extended south across south Wales. The start and end time of the warning have been delayed by 3 hours.
